April 2003 Newsletter

This issue of the Newsletter comes complete with an updated preliminary program for the Toulouse meeting. If you have not yet registered for the meeting, please do so ASAP. The conference organizers also request that everyone attending the meeting inform them in advance which of the organized functions they will attend. You may send this information to Nathalie Dessens (dessens@univ-tlse2.fr). Also included in this issue are the minutes from the New Haven meeting and a call for papers for the 2004 meeting to be held in Washington, DC.

As noted in the January issue, the Newsletter has gone digital and is now available as an e-mailed Adobe Acrobat file. The Adobe Acrobat reader can be downloaded free of charge at <http://www.adobe.com>. If you prefer to receive to receive the electronic version in lieu of the usual paper version, please send me your e-mail address at korosz@maine.edu. It is, however, imperative that you also keep your regular (ie snail mail) address up to date so that we can send you copies of French Colonial History as it becomes available.

Finally, several books and films have been sent to me to be reviewed in future issues of the newsletter. Materials currently awaiting reviewers are listed in the Notices section of this issue. Please contact me at korosz@maine.edu if interested in reviewing any of these items.

Presidents s Message

Spring brings many wonderful things, including the annual FCHS conference. This year's gathering in Toulouse promises to be an exceptional event. Three of our colleagues – Nathalie Dessens, Bertrand Van Ruymbeke and Philip Boucher -- have put together a wonderfully stimulating combination of scholarly sessions and social events that will make a lasting impression on all who attend. It is the classic FCHS formula that separates our annual meetings from many others.

Aside from the contacts to be made, feedback to be received, and papers to be savored, the conference is also where we expect to learn from treasurer Bill Newbigging that the society is still on sound financial footing. The annual meeting is also where we learn from Bill Shorrock the winner of this year's Heggoy Book Prize and from Bob DuPlessis the first two winners of the Eccles Prize for graduate student papers. Thanks to all who submitted publications for consideration and to all who participated in the refereeing or judging process.

This year's conference marks the fifteenth I have attended since I first was drawn into the gravitational pull of the FCHS, and it marks the end of my term as president. Accordingly, I feel compelled to offer a short reflection. Over the course of the years I have been associated with the FCHS I have seen a number of significant changes. One of the more dramatic was when the Society, at the urging of Cornelius Jaenen, took a leap of faith and held the annual meeting beyond the United States and Canada. Cornelius led us first to Martinique and Guadeloupe in 1989 and then to Poitiers in 1996. This year we go "international" once again. The moves beyond Canada and the U.S. raised the profile of our society and, what is more important, of its members. Through these occasional forays abroad, we have put members in touch with counterparts working on related or similar topic areas in the Antilles, Europe and Africa. Today, the FCHS is a truly international organization with members around the globe. The recent introduction of our web site and of an electronic version of our newsletter, both handled by Ken Orosz, has enhanced international awareness of our members' interests, activities and accomplishments. The move to a journal format for our annual publication, French Colonial History published by MSU Press, was another step in the same direction. Vol. 1, edited by Dale Standen and Vols. 2, 3 and 4 edited by Bob DuPlessis represent a major leap forward. Congratulations to Dale and Bob for overseeing this transition.

Through all the changes introduced to broaden the appeal and involvements of the FCHS, the executive of the society continues to strive to maintain the friendly and informal atmosphere we value so highly. It is a combination that has worked for 29 years, so there is no reason to stop now.

French Colonial History

Copies of volume 2 of French Colonial History, the Society's refereed journal, were mailed to members in early March 2003. (If you have not received a copy, please contact Bill Newbigging at newbiggi@auc.on.ca.) Volume 3 will be mailed in April, and volume 4 will be available at the time of the Toulouse meeting in May. With the appearance of these volumes, each of which includes papers delivered at the Society's meetings in the last few years, publication of French Colonial History will return to its normal annual schedule. At this time, too, Patricia Galloway, University of Texas, will replace Robert DuPlessis as editor.

In order to maintain the normal publication schedule, with volumes issued at the time of the annual meeting, the deadline for submission of papers is in June, a month after their delivery. Full details, together with guidelines from the publisher, Michigan State University Press, will be available at this year's meeting. Or you can email Robert DuPlessis at rduples1@swarthmore.edu. As a reminder: only papers delivered at the annual meeting are eligible for publication in French Colonial History. Graduate students who participate in the meeting are particularly urged to submit their papers for publication and automatic consideration for the Eccles Prize. Further details about the Prize can be found on the Society's website.

Heggoy Book Prize

The composition of the Heggoy Book prize selection committee is changing. Next year's prize committee chair will be Sue Peabody (Washington State University - Vancouver). Bill Shorrock and Greg Waselkov are stepping down from the committee and will be replaced by Eric Jennings (University of Toronto) and Peter Moogk (University of British Columbia).

Colleagues at Work

Raymond Birn is currently conducting research on Father Honoré Laval and the Gambier Project 1834-1871.

Philip Boucher has published "The Frontier Era of the French Caribbean, 1620s-1690s" in: Negotiated Empires: Centers and Peripheries in the Americas 1500-1820 (New York: Routledge, 2002).

José Antonio Brandao will be on sabbatical 2003-2004 and will be working with Joseph L. Peyser on the third volume of publications of the French Michilimackinac Research and Translation project sponsored by the Mackinac State Historic Parks. His Nation Iroquoise: A Seventeenth Century Ethnography of the Iroquois will be published this fall by the University of Nebraska Press. This volume is an edited and translated ethnography of the Iroquois left by a French man who lived among them for 2 years.

Jean-Francois Brière is working on a book about Franco-Haitian relations between 1804 and 1850.

Kenneth Donovan has published "After Midnight We Danced until Daylight: Music, Song and Dance in Cape Breton, 1713-1758" in Acadiensis vol XXXII no. 1 (Autumn 2002) pp. 3-28.

Patrick Feeney is currently conducting research on 17th century missions in New France. He is also interested in Jesuit Science Christina Firpo is a doctoral candidate at UCLA working on a dissertation that examines race relations in colonial Vietnam.

Patricia Galloway, University of Texas-Austin, delivered a presentation on the history of Indians in the lands of the Louisiana Purchase from 10,000 BC to 1770, at the Louisiana Purchase Bicentennial Conference: The Louisiana Purchase and its Peoples: Assessing Historical Knowledge on the Eve of the Third American Century, in New Orleans, January 22-25. What's more, she did it in 32 minutes. Conference papers will be published under the editorship of Paul Hoffman.

David Greggus published L'indépendance d'Haiti et l'opinion publique en Angleterre, in Marcel Dorigny Le rétablissement de l'esclavage (Paris: Maisonneuve, 2003) and The Influence of the Haitian Revolution on Blacks in Latin America and the Caribbean in Nancy Naro (ed) Blacks and Coloureds in the Formation of National Identity in 19th Century Latin America (London: University of London Press, 2003). He has also published Indigo and Slavery in Saint Domingue in V. Shepherd, Sugar Without Slavery (Gainesville, FL: University of Florida Press, 2002).

Lauren Ann Kattner was a recipient of the Kempner and Leila P. Williams Fellowship for a student of slavery and Gender in 18th century Louisiana. She published an article entitled The Diversity of Old South White Women: the Peculiar Worlds of German-American Women, in Patricia Morton (ed) Discovering the Women in Slavery: Emancipating Perspectives on the American Past (Athens, Ga: University of Georgia Press, 1995); this article discusses German women in the French colonial Gulf South. She is currently working on 2 related manuscripts: Confronting Slavery: German Catholics in French and British Colonies, 1719-1763, and Literacy in what Language? German Responses in France and the Colonial Americas, 1720-1803.

Charlotte and Frederick Quinn published Pride, Faith and Fear: Islam in Sub-Saharan Africa (Oxford: Oxford University Press, 2003).

Isabelle Tanguay is a PhD student at the University of Montreal. Her research interests are Canadian nobility during the 17-18th centuries and relations between France and Canada during the 17-18th centuries.

Lewis Tambs recently published a translation of Major General Karl Ernst Haushofer's Geopolitics of the Pacific Ocean (Lewiston, NY: The Edwin Mellen Press, 2002). Among other topics, this volume deals with French Indochina, French railroad construction in China, France's Pacific possessions and French claims to islands off the west coast of Mexico.

Frederick Thorpe served 1996-2001 as a consultant on the French colony of Plaisance (1663-1713) for the Department of Justice, Newfoundland and Labrador. He published a report entitled Plaisance and the Micmacs; and appeared as an expert witness in the Supreme Court of Newfoundland, Trial Division in April 2001. He is currently working on additional research by products stemming that episode.

Germaine Warkentin published Who was the Scribe of the Radisson Manuscript? in Archivaria vol 53 (Spring 2002). She is currently working on her edition of Radisson and has also prepared an analysis of the manuscript of the Codex canadiensis attributed to Louis Nicolas. She is collecting data for a census of copies of Pierre Boucher's Histoire naturelle et véritable (1664)

2004 FCHS Conference, Washington, DC Call For Papers

The 30th Anniversary meeting of the FCHS will be held Wednesday, May 5 through Saturday, May 8 2004 in Washington, D.C., and will be cosponsored by the Georgetown University History Department. Most sessions will be held on the Georgetown campus, which has excellent conference facilities. The conference hotel will be the Rosslyn Holiday Inn at Key

Bridge, just across the Potomac River from Georgetown. Room rates are $119, plus 9.75% sales tax, as opposed to a much higher rate in the District of Columbia. The hotel is located near a Metro stop and shuttle busses will transport us to and from Georgetown. The closing banquet of specially selected French colonial specialties will be held at the Cosmos Club, 2121 Mass. Ave., possibly with a french colonial era cabaret musician for entertainment. Additional details, including a formal call for papers, will be announced here in the Newsletter and on www.frenchcolonial.org as they become available.

The program co-chairs have decided to split the task of organizing the conference program. Sylvie Depatie (depatie.sylvie@uqam.ca) will be in charge of papers dealing with the pre-1831 empire. Mike Vann (mikevann@cruzio.com) will deal with papers and panels relating to the post 1831 empire. He is especially interested in papers and/or panels that investigate the role of race in the Empire, the tension between France's republican ideals and the authoritarian nature of the empire, and the culture of the colonial world. Also of interest are works that deal with anti-colonialism and those that explore ways of integrating colonial history into the fabric of French national history.

Minutes of the Annual Meeting

Annual General Meeting
French Colonial Historical Society
Omni Hotel New Haven at Yale
18 May, 2002

Present: Johnston, Duplessis, Galloway, Moogk, Standen, Leavelle, Waselkov, Thorpe, Gitlin, Sherrod, Demers, Demers, Pritchard, Pritchard, Miquelon, Winch, Mohan, Morton, Boucher, Lyoni, Newbigging

Johnston: Welcome. First I would like to announce that the Eccles Prize for the best paper presented by a graduate student will be awarded.

Newbigging: The financial statement will be available in the Newsletter.

Pritchard: I would like to issue a challenge to my colleagues to fund the Eccles Prize. I will start by donating $100.

Moogk: I second Pritchard's challenge and also will donate $100. (Both Moogk and Pritchard gave cheques to Newbigging who passed them on to Standen)

Duplessis: We need to find ways to promote the new journal. We need to encourage graduate students to submit their papers. The Eccles Prize is an incentive.

Pritchard: Is the new journal indexed?

Duplessis: MSU Press does this.

Waselkov: 12 books were nominated for the Heggoy Prize. The Heggoy Prize Committee includes Sue Peabody, Bill Shorrock, and Greg Waselkov.

Johnston: We should consider Morton's suggestion to fund the Eccles and Heggoy Prizes with cash from our general accounts. We should see if a consolidation makes sense.

Boucher: Toulouse will host the annual meeting on 14-18 May, 2003. There will be a formal reception on Wednesday evening. There will be receptions every evening. Friday afternoon will be free. Sunday will be reserved for an all day excursion. The programme is very full but potential participants can still submit proposals.

Boucher: I would like to see research links on frenchcolonial.org.

Pritchard: Can we negotiate a block of airline tickets?

Thorpe: I will see if we can through my agent in Ottawa. This is a good idea.

Johnston: Fred Quinn is working hard on the Washington Meeting for 2004.

Presents were then given to Eliza Sherrod for herself and for Jay Gitlin. General applause and adjournment by consensus.

French Colonial Historical Society
29th Annual Meeting, Toulouse France
May 14-18, 2003

The University of Toulouse-Le Mirail (Toulouse, France) will host the 2003 annual meeting of the French Colonial Historical Society/Société d'Histoire Coloniale Française (15-18 May 2003).

The board meeting (Wednesday, May 14 from 4:00-6:00 PM) and the inaugural cocktail (Wednesday, May 14 at 6:30 PM) will both be hosted by the Grand Hôtel de l Opéra, right on the Place du Capitole (City Hall). It is located within walking distance of all the downtown hotels and right next to the metro station Capitole.

Thursday night's festivities will be held at the University and will be financed by four research centers, two from the University of Toulouse (Centre Anglo-Saxon and Disporas) and two from Paris (C.E.N.A. (EHESS) and Suds d'Amérique (University of Versailles-St. Quentin)). Friday's festivities will be offered by Mairie de Toulouse in the beautiful historical city hall, Le Capitole. A banquet will be held Saturday night in one of the greatest restaurants in Toulouse.

On Sunday, an outing will be held for participants and their spouses. After much hesitation, it was finally decided that a visit of Toulouse was indispensable, since the three days of the meeting will be totally occupied by working sessions. The visit will open with a barge trip on the Garonne River; a walking tour of the historical district (with French and English speaking guides) will follow, and will include visits to one of the many beautiful cathedrals in Toulouse and the Hotel d'Assezat, probably the most beautiful "Hotel Particulier" in Toulouse, which hosts an impressive private art collection (the Bemberg Foundation). A lunch break will offer everyone the possibility to rest and test the great Southwestern food, in a vaulted restaurant located on the Place du Capitole, the very heart of the historical center.

The program, metro tickets, maps and all necessary information will be given to those present at the inaugural cocktail. Those who can not make it will have to go directly to the University of Toulouse-Le Mirail on Thursday, May 15. Maps and final information (including a link to the University of Toulouse-Le Mirail website) will also be added to the FCHS website.

Although the events included in the fees were not mentioned on the registration form, it would be very helpful to the local organizers to know how many persons will attend each function. This is particularly true of the inaugural cocktail and the Thursday, Friday and Saturday lunches. If you do not plan to participate in these events please indicate which ones you will not be attending on your registration form. Those who have already sent in their forms and who will not participate in all of these events should indicate which ones they will not be attending by sending an e-mail to Nathalie Dessens (dessens@univ-tlse2.fr)

CONFERENCE DETAILS

The meeting itself will occur on the premises of the Université de Toulouse-Le Mirail, very easily accessible from downtown: the Metro goes there directly (station: Mirail Université) in about ten to twelve minutes from the four downtown stations (Marengo SNCF (train station), Jean-Jaurès, Capitole, Esquirol), and there is a metro every one to two minutes from about 6am to midnight). A map of the Métro is available on the website.

A very long list of hotels is available on the website of the FCHS (from very cheap to very expensive ones). They are all located within walking distance of the four downtown metro stations (never more than ten minutes away from one of them). Price ranges are indicated, as well as the closest metro station. All of the * and  ones are just great (the Holiday Inn Toulouse Centre as well as the Grand Hotel Les Capitouls Centre (Best Western) are just wonderful). The  ones are very clean and comfortable, although they are less luxurious than the others (the Ours Blanc Wilson is just great, but most of them are).

Toulouse may be reached by train (five hours from Paris) and plane. Planes fly from and to Paris-Orly every half hour from about 6:30 am to 10 pm (La Navette Air France; Air Lib also flies this route but has had many financial problems in the previous year and may not still be operating in May), and Paris Roissy-Charles de Gaulle, although slightly less frequently. "Fichiers Congrès" are available on request and give a 20% discount on Air France domestic flights and train tickets. The metro has a station at the train station for those who choose this means of transportation (Marengo SNCF). There is a shuttle from the airport to downtown every 20 minutes all day (about 5 euros/dollars). The trip is about twenty minutes long and the shuttle has two stops: one at the train station (metro station Marengo SNCF), one at the downtown Air France agency (metro station Jean-Jaurès). Many cabs are also available from the airport (about 20 euros/dollars to any downtown location).

For specific information, email Nathalie Dessens (dessens@univ-tlse2.fr) or Bertrand Van Ruymbeke (ruymbeke@univ-tlse2.fr).
